About AFIA

The Australasian Forum for International Arbitration (AFIA) is a forum for practitioners, especially young practitioners, to discuss issues and developments in international arbitration, with particular focus on the Asia-Pacific region.

AFIA makes its activities as inclusive as possible for practitioners through informal roundtable discussions, where attendees are able to ask questions and share knowledge based on their international arbitration experience. Discussions are led by a more experienced three-member panel and are based on topics that are suggested by members and circulated to attendees prior to each symposium.

AFIA provides a great opportunity for the forging of relationships for young practitioners spanning the Australasian region and globally, through both individual membership and through relationships which AFIA continues to develop with similar organisations around the world.

Since its inauguration in 2004, AFIA has held symposia in Singapore, Hong Kong, Kuala Lumpur, Seoul, Melbourne and Sydney. For more information, visit our website: www.afia.net.au.
